The Library Occurrent is issued in March, June, September and December. It is distributed free of charge in Indiana. Entered as second class matter June 13, 1911, at the postoffice at Indianapolis, Indiana, under the act of July 16, 1894. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided in Sec. 1103, Acts of October 3, 1917, authorized on June 29, 1918.

BREAKING PATTERNS

by Mrs. Benjamin Saks Trustee, Gary Public Library

"One day through the primeval wood A calf walked home as good calves should:

But made a trail all bent askew, A crooked trail as all calves do. Since then three hundred years have fled,

And I infer that calf is dead.

VI

Each day a hundred thousand rout Followed this zigzag calf about, And o'er his crooked journey went The traffic of a continent.

A hundred thousand men were led By one calf near three centuries dead. They followed still his crooked way, And lost one hundred years a day; For thus such reverence is lent To well-established precedent."

"The Calf-Path" by Sam Walter Foss.

Actually, these are but a few lines from a whimsically realistic poem. The story tells of a wobbly calf who three hundred years ago ambled through the woods. After him on succeeding days, weeks, and years came a dog, a herd of sheep, a man and his wagon, many men, a village, a metropolis—all following, all begrudging the time-consuming pattern laid out for them. But nobody tried to change it!

How many "calf-paths" do we follow in our daily lives, or more specifically in this instance, in our actions and thoughts as library trustees? Are we blindly following a pattern laid out for us by those who preceded us many years ago when times and circumstances were quite different? Would we sometimes like to cut a different pattern for ourselves, but are too overwhelmed by tradition and precedent to try? Would it not be well for each of us to examine the pattern of our own trustee experience, and see if we are conscientiously satisfied with our efforts?

Each library seems to have a history of patterns. In some, the precedent has been for the trustees to serve willingly whenever called upon, be it on the local, state or national level. There is no thought of refusal. The obligation to serve, and serve to the best of his ability, has been deeply ingrained, and each new board member is so indoctrinated.

As always, the trustees who give the most receive the most. Doing, learning, serving, bring forth challenging ideas—ideas that enrich the trustee, his library, his community, his world. He knows that he can learn from everybody—big, little, or middle-sized.

On the other hand, there is the trustee who inherits the pattern of "hands off", limiting all activity outside his own bailiwick. Well-meaning and conscientious, he follows the "calf-path" laid out for him by his forbears. Somehow, down through the history of his library has come the recurring refrain, "our problems are different from theirs". Regional, state, and national conferences are for others, the others "who have things in common".

Share Knowledge

It is to these trustees that our opening poem is particularly applicable. You will never know if your situation is peculiar to you alone unless you come to learn if others are similarly confronted; you cannot assert that your problems are impossible to solve until you have asked a possible solution from others; you cannot know how much you have to offer until you have shared your knowledge with those who need your guidance.

For the sake of progress let us here and now put to rest the old bromide that "in conventions they never talk about libraries the size of ours". No matter what size library is discussed, you can learn and take home valuable information that can be adjusted to your own measurements. But, you must break the pattern of no participation.

You must take the first step toward your fellow trustees; you must be willing to give of your intellect, time, and effort and, sometimes, comfort. (It's much easier to stay home, but not nearly so stimulating!) Your efforts will be rewarded by an ever-widening acquaintance with others, who, like you, are trying to do good work for their libraries and communities.

A perfect example of pattern-breaking occurred a few weeks before the San Francisco conference. On a hunch -and with the full knowledge and cooperation of their head librarian-the board of trustees of a fine library was approached as potential convention goers. The pattern of this particular board had always been one of non-participation on any level. There were no specific reasons for the pattern. The trustees are very busy, very active, community minded individuals, and library business was strictly the librarian's perogative on any scene other than local.

Personal Invitation

Well, back to the hunch. The chairman and co-chairman of the ALA Trustees' Workshop visited this neighboring library board and personally invited them to the sessions. Add to this the charm of San Francisco, the honest desire to know and counsel with other interested trustees, and you have the ingredients for a perfect pattern-breaker. And it worked!

Suffice it to say that in San Francisco a whole new concept of trustee responsibility and effectiveness opened for both the new- and old-timers. The picture of two hundred trustees striving e for common solutions to uncommon problems—learning, counseling questioning, suggesting, agreeing, disagreeing, thinking aloud—this was an exhilerating, heady experience. Suddenly, your problem was everyone's problem, and everyone wanted to help. In return, the problem you had solved long ago still baffled others, and your solution was eagerly received. Group therapy can be challenging as well as healing, and knotty items remained to be tossed about all year. Perhaps their solution would come in '59.

Rewarding

But the greatest reward of the whole episode of the hunch, was not that one novice was thrilled with the American Association of Library Trustees. That perhaps could be foreseen. The reward came in the wealth of suggestions, information, ideas and experiences that he, though a newcomer, had to offer. In the business world he had encountered and solved many of the problems now besetting the AALT. His vast experience in dealing with the public, his know-how in the field of public relations, his common-sense approach to trustee acquaintances were invaluable. Here was an individual who was and will be a tremendous asset to trustee work. I feel sure that this man, in breaking the pattern of his predecessors, will help fashion a new and stimulating pattern on the entire library scene. If ever there was vindication for breaking precedent, here it was! Mutual assistance and thought-provoking innovations resulted when this "calf-path" was straightened out.

In another instance when the librarian of a medium-sized library moved up the ladder to a larger assignment, he found his new board of the hermit variety. He was not accustomed to a nonactive group of trustees. He had come from a pattern of participation. With the same persuasive tact that had helped along in his career, he approached his board with the idea of their attending conventions. The suggestion took hold and now with a more widely informed board, the library is making even greater strides in its service to the community. Another victory for the breaker of outmoded patterns!

A word, now about that perennial problem, money. In a day when the emphasis is on education, not only for personal edification, but for survival; when schools and libraries must meet the needs of all who call upon them, it behooves us to budget, as the law allows, for convention expenses. In just such a way can active members of the library world, both trustees and staff, avail themselves of the stimulation and education of mind rubbing mind, of suggestion begetting solution.

Participation

It is hard work attending a conference. The hours are long and the meetings are many. But the rewards are great and lasting. Those trustees who follow the pattern of full obligation and participation know this to be true. To those who have not as yet forsaken the "calf-path", you owe this challenge to yourself: Participate in your state and national conferences; go prepared to question, probe, delve, suggest, and give; see how much you, your library,

Irene Strieby Honored

Irene M. Strieby, who has been associated with Eli Lilly and Company's library since 1934, was chosen one of the ten top career women in Indianapolis and was honored by the Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce at a recognition dinner on November 5.

The nomination of Mrs. Strieby cited her company loyalty and inspirational leadership, contributions to education and librarianship, and the expansion of the company library in its twenty-two years under her direction. She has held the post of archivist since 1956 and will retire next year.

In 1956 Mrs. Strieby received the Professional Award of the Special Libraries Association, recognizing notable professional achievement in the field of special librarianship. She is listed in Who's Who in America, Who's Who in Library Service, Chemical Who's Who, and other volumes; is the author of more than thirty published articles in her field; and has appeared as a speaker on library programs from coast to coast and in Canada. She was national president of Special Libraries Association and is a past president of its Indiana Chapter. She served four years as an officer of the United Book Exchange. She is a member of a number of state and national and professional societies.

A native of Converse, Indiana, the former Irene Macy was graduated from Converse High School and received a Bachelor of Arts degree in 1916 from Brenau College, where she majored in science. Her Bachelor of Science degree in library science was conferred by the University of North Carolina in 1933.

Evansville and Vanderburgh County Public Library Publications

The 1958 edition of the Teachers Manual on Library Services for High School Students, multilithed by the Evansville Public Schools, was distributed to all high school teachers. Requests for this publication will be filled until the supply is exhausted.

Another recent publication is an 8-page mimeographed leaflet designed to help patrons use the Central Library public union adult catalog. The 1958 edition of For Your Information, a 20-page, mimeographed handbook for new library staff members has been published. Requests for copies will be filled.

The new filing rules of the Evansville and Vanderburgh County Public Library are now available in mimeographed form. This revision of the filing rules has been a major project. Two of the basic changes are consistent alphabetic filing (including the interfiling of author, title, and subject cards beginning with the same word, disregarding punctuation), and chronological filing (in ten-year groups) of subject cards whenever there are over 35 cards on the same subject. Copies of this new filing code are available.

DE REGNIERS, BEATRICE SCHENK. Something Special. Drawings by Irene Haas. 1958. Harcourt. $2.25.

Nine poems with catchy rhythm and humor written for children. The illustrations by Irene Haas are very clever. The author is a former resident of Crawfordsville.

GEBHARD, PAUL H. and OTHERS. Pregancy, Birth and Abortion. 1958. 282p. Harper. $6.00.

The third study to be issued by the Institute for Sex Research, founded by the late Alfred C. Kinsey at Indiana University. Some of this material appeared in McCall's magazine in 1958.

HESBURGH, THEODORE M., C.S.C. Patterns for Educational Growth. 1958. 71p. University of Notre Dame Press. $2.25.

The author is the president of the University of Notre Dame. These discourses are on different aspects of university education. They express the guiding lines of educational endeavor at the University of Notre Dame. The titles are: Wisdom and education, A theology of history and education, The mission of a Catholic university, Education in a world of social challenge, The Divine element in education, and Education in the world of science.

HUNT, MABEL LEIGH. Cristy at Skippinghills. Illustrated by Velma Ilsley. 1958. 141p. Lippincott. $3.00.

Poppa Romano purchased a shoe repair shop of his own and moved his family from the big city to the little town of Skippinghills. Cristy found plenty to do with baby sitting, the poetry contest, and the glorious Fourth of July festival. Better still, she found a real home town.

INDIANAPOLIS PRESS CLUB. Dateline: Indiana. 1958. 128p. The Press Club. $3.00.

Interesting historical sketches are compiled with news stories about Indiana. Anecdotes, cartoons, and jokes about Hoosier politicians are included. The book was issued to observe the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Indianapolis Press Club. There are many photographs to illustrate the news stories written by present and former Indiana newspapermen.

KIMBROUGH, EMILY. And a Right Good Crew. Drawings by Mircea Vasiliu. 1958. 273p. Harper. $3.95.

Another of Miss Kimbrough's travel books narrated to entertain. This trip was taken through the canals of England and Wales. The author tells about chores on board boat and of visits to enchanting old world villages along the route. All plans did not run smoothly; there were numerous changes of schedule, and many unforseen hazards to face.

LOCKRIDGE, ROSS F. and HELLER, HERBERT L. The Story of Indiana.
Third edition. 1958. 441p. Harlow.

The third edition brings Ross Lockridge's Story of Indiana up to date. It is a text for junior high school classes. Dr. Herbert L. Heller is an associate professor of education at DePauw University.

N

McGaughey, Helen. Reaching for the Spring. 1958. 48p. Exposition. $2.50.

Miss McGaughey has won national awards in poetry and scholarships to Indiana University Writers' Conference. Formerly a resident of Greencastle, the author is now associate professor of English at Indiana State Teachers College, Terre Haute.

MASON, MIRIAM E. A Small Farm for Andy. Pictures by Vee Guthrie. 1958. 137p. Macmillan. $2.75.

Things always happen when Andy came around. A peace-loving neighbor, writing a book, gave Andy a farm with plenty of room to run and play. Farm life brought strange experiences for Andy.

Morrison, Olin Dee. Indiana, Hoosier State. 3 Volumes. 1958. Processed. E. M. Morrison, 152 North Congress Street, Athens, Ohio. $15.75 per set.

The author's teaching experience brought on the realization of the need for material to aid in teaching of Indiana history and government. Volume 1 ($5.50) is the history of Indiana written at high school level. It covers the period from the earliest times to 1958 elections. An appendix contains a chronological history of Indiana, and a list of historic sites. Volume 2 ($9.00) is an historical atlas of Indiana supplying maps and charts to illustrate Volume 1. Volume 3 ($2.75) Government and Basic Documents is a discussion of state and local government. The appendix lists government terms and contains Indiana historic documents. The author, a former Hoosier, is in the History Department of Ohio State University.

—. Indiana "Hoosier State". New Historical Atlas of Indiana. Economic, Social, Political. (Abridged edition) 1958. 47p. Processed. E. M. Morrison, Athens, Ohio. $2.50. Sixty maps and charts make up the abridged edition of the larger work. It is a work book for sixth grade or higher, with instructions for coloring the maps. The book is for classroom use.

Newcomb, Richard F. Abandon Ship. Death of the U.S.S. Indianapolis. 1958. 305p. Holt. $3.95.

The sinking of the heavy cruiser Indianapolis, flagship of the Fifth Fleet, was one of the most shocking disasters in United States naval history. On July 30, 1945, the cruiser was torpedoed by a Japanese submarine in the South Pacific. It was four days before the Navy learned the ship was missing. Here is a full story of that sinking, the experiences of the survivors, and the investigation and court martial which followed. The author is world news editor of the Associated Press. During World War II he was a correspondent in the Pacific.

Nolan, Jeannette Covert. Dolley Madison. 1958. 192p. Messner. $2.95.

The story of Dolley Madison is a legend in American history. She was one of the most beautiful and charming White House hostesses. Jeannette Nolan has written another excellent portrait of a woman significant in American history.

ROYSE, MINTIE ALLEN. The Bennet Family. Indiana Historical Society. 1958. 98p. The Society, $1.00.

Joseph Bennet left England in 1837 to find a more healthful climate for his wife in the United States. He located in the vicinity of Cincinnati. After the death of his wife, he married a young widow, Bethania Crocker Bishop, the mistress of Carrollton's School of Young Ladies. Seven years later, Joseph Bennet died. Bethania again became a school mistress to provide for her family. She taught at Waveland Collegiate Institute, at Oxford and Dayton, Ohio, and at Greencastle. The book presents a clear picture of family life and society in midwest United States prior to the Civil War.

TRIMBLE, HUGH J. Return from the Deep. 1958. 197p. McHew. $3.75.

BREAKING PATTERNS

and your community benefit from your increased knowledge!

As all good business men and house-wives know, inventories must be constantly watched and revised to be effective, whether it be in steel rails, wheat, or kitchen cabinet contents. What was necessary and useful last year may be just taking up valuable space this year. So, too, in living must we constantly question and adjust ourselves to today's needs. If our mode of conduct, our pattern, if you please, is passé, not soulsatisfying, we must change it. A new world of lofty ideas awaits both the giver and the receiver.

Alfred Lord Tennyson summed it up beautifully in these few immortal lines from "Idylls of the King":

"The old order changeth, yielding place to new,

And God fulfills himself in many ways, Lest one good custom should corrupt the world." T

ALA LIBRARY TECHNOLOGY PROJECT

The American Library Association will inaugurate this spring a service to provide librarians, retailers, and manufacturers with accurate qualitative information on library equipment and supplies. This new service is made possible for ALA through a grant of $136,395 from the Council on Library Resources, Inc. The grant will support the project for two years.

"Library Technology: A Standards Program on Supplies and Equipment" is the full title of the new project. It will operate informally as the ALA Library Technology Project. ALA will administer it through an advisory committee appointed from members of its Library Administration Division. Miss Katharine Stokes. President of LAD, has named the following as members of the advisory group: Keith Doms, Assistant Director, Carnegie Library of Pittsburgh, Chairman; Ralph Blasingame, Jr., State Librarian of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg; Donald Coney, Librarian of the University of California, Berkeley; John H. Ottemiller, Associate Librarian of Yale University, New Haven, Conn.; and Miss M. Bernice Wiese, Supervisor of School Libraries, Baltimore Department of Education, Baltimore.

The advisory committee held its first meeting in conjunction with the Midwinter Meeting of ALA Council. LTP will have a full-time director and an additional staff of four. Appointment of the director is expected within the next few weeks.

Collection and compilation of existing standards for library supplies and equipment will be the first major program of the project. As soon as this work is under way, however, the project will establish its free information service for the answering of mail and telephone inquiries. A handbook collecting present standards into a single handy volume is an early aim of LTP. After the compilation of such a volume it is expected that a regular department of the ALA Bulletin will be used to disseminate further similar data.

Long-range plans for LTP envision the establishment of a testing laboratory and full development of research programs to identify equipment needs of libraries and to develop needed items of equipment.

LTP is the result of a proposal first fully stated by Melville J. Ruggles, Vice President of the Council on Library Resources, Inc., in 1957. Mr. Ruggles outlined the need for such a program. Its feasibility was tested in a six-months study conducted by John Ottemiller in 1958.

Mr. Ottemiller reviewed present library literature relating to standards for supplies and equipment and met with nearly four hundred librarians in thirteen cities to discuss the program. Representative opinion from all parts of the country was achieved through correspondence. He found librarians overwhelmingly in favor of such a program, and his report on his feasibility study was enthusiastically accepted by the advisory committee for the study and by the Board of Directors of ALA's Library Administration Division.
